DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

This action is in response to Applicant's amendment filed January 29, 2010. Claims 1-49 are pending in this application. Claims 39-49 have been withdrawn as a result of a restriction election. Applicant is reminded to cancel claims 39-49 upon allowance of this application.

Specification

The cross-reference to related application numbers have been filled. The objection is now withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claim(s) 1-13 are rejected under 35 USC 101 since the claims are directed to non-statutory subject matter. Claim(s) 1-13 recite "computer readable medium" which appear to cover both transitory and non-transitory embodiments. See specification page 35, lines 14-16, which states that the computer program may be fixed permanently or transitorily in tangible storage medium.

The United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) is required to give claims their broadest reasonable interpretation consistent with the specification during proceedings before the USPTO. See In re Zletz, 893 F.2d 319 (Fed. Cir. 1989) (during patent examination the pending claims must be interpreted as broadly as their terms reasonably allow). The broadest reasonable interpretation of a claim drawn to a computer readable medium (also called machine readable medium and other such variations) typically covers forms of non-transitory tangible media and transitory propagating signals per se in view of the ordinary and customary meaning of computer readable media, particularly when the specification is silent. See MPEP 2111.01. When the broadest reasonable interpretation of a claim covers a signal per se, the claim must be rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 101 as covering non-statutory subject matter. See In re Nuijten, 500 F.3d 1346, 1356-57 (Fed. Cir. 2007) (transitory embodiments are not directed to statutory subject matter) and Interim Examination Instructions for Evaluating Subject Matter Eligibility Under 35 U.S.C. § 101, Aug. 24, 2009; p. 2.

The Examiner suggests that the Applicant add the limitation "non-transitory" to the "computer readable medium" as recited in the claim(s) in order to properly render the claim(s) in statutory form in view of their broadest reasonable interpretation in light of the originally filed specification. The Examiner also suggests that the specification may be amended to include the term "non-transitory computer readable medium" OR to add the term "non-transitory" to the disclosed computer readable medium disclosed in the claims and specification to avoid a potential objection to the specification for a lack of antecedent basis of the claimed terminology.

14-38 are rejected under 35 USC 101 because the claims are directed to non-statutory subject matter. According to the specification, the terms "user application" and "optical service agent" can be interpreted as modules, programs, functions and subroutines. Such terms must be stored in a non-transitory computer readable medium and executed by a computer to perform the claimed steps/functions. Thus, these claims are software per se.

Potential Allowable Subject Matter

The PTO will consider allowing the application provided that:

1. The claims and/or specification are amended to overcome the 101 issues,

AND

2. The withdrawn claims are cancelled.

If Applicant agrees to amend the claims/specification as suggested above, Applicant is invited to telephone the Examiner in order to amend the application by Examiner's amendment in order to expedite the prosecution. If Applicant disagrees, Applicant is encouraged to file an appeal.
